LLOYD LIBRARY & MUSEUM

Fall is here, along with the final two programs in The Lore of the Pawpaw schedule. Join the virtual conversation on our state native fruit with Robert Brannan in November. Remember, there's only one month left to see our photographic exhibition as part of the 2024 FotoFocus Biennial!

A Legacy of Pawpaws Has Sold Out

The October 30 program with Ron Powell has sold out. Looking to learn more about pawpaws? Check out our November 13 virtual program with Robert Brannan below and visit The Lore of the Pawpaw exhibition now through November 22.

Pawpaws from Appalachia to Europe and Back

When: Wednesday, November 13, 7-8 p.m.
Where: Virtual Program

Take a journey with Ohio University professor Robert Brannan as he describes his research pathway from here to Europe on the growth of pawpaws trees on both continents. Learn about his international connections and their recent updates on different cultivars of Ohio's state native fruit. Registration required.

2025 Fellowship and Artist-in-Residence Applications Due November 1

The deadline is approaching to submit applications for 2025 Curtis Gates Lloyd Fellowships and Artists-in-Residence. The program provides stipends to support research at the Lloyd and requires a project at the end of the award period. For more information, click here. Applications are due November 1, 2024

A Bat from the Past

What's Halloween without bats? Our spooky little friend here hails from the pages of Eleazar Albin's 1731-1738 work A Natural History of Birds--where it is described as "a Creature between a Bird and a Beast." Nestled among three volumes of hand-colored illustrations, this "Double Eared Bat" is also labeled as a "Batt or Flutter-Mouse." Albin created the set of books with his daughter Elizabeth, who helped color many of the birds (and flying animals) alongside the text.
